§ NO. 1 OF
TEL OFFSHORE TRUST § TRAVIS COUNTY, TEXAS

INDIVIDUAL TRUSTEES' RESPONSE TO RNR PRODUCTION LAND AND CATTLE'S REQUEST FOR DISCLOSURE

TO: RNR PRODUCTION LAND AND CATTLE, by and through its attorney of record, Shannon H., Ratliff, Ratliff Law Firm, P.L.L.C., 600 Congress Avenue, Suite 3100, Austin, Texas 78701.

Pursuant to Rule 194 of the Texas Rules of Civil Procedure, Gary C. Evans, Jeffrey S. Swanson, and Thomas H. Owen, Jr., as Individual Trustees of the TEL Offshore Trust ("Individual Trustees"), hereby respond to RNR's Request for Disclosure.

RESPONSE:

The Individual Trustees' Counterclaim asks the Court to modify the Trust Agreement to allow the Trust to terminate by approval of a court of competent jurisdiction, and further asks the Court to terminate the Trust. The Individual Trustees also seek reimbursement of expenses incurred by the Individual Trustees and fees owed to the Individual Trustees, pursuant to Sections 6.06, 7.04, 7.05, and 7.06 of the Trust Agreement. The Trust further seeks attorneys' fees and costs pursuant to Section 114.064 of the Texas Trust Code and Section 7.06 of the Trust Agreement. Further, the Individual Trustees are entitled to indemnification and full reimbursement from the Trust Estate against and from any and all liability, expense (including counsel fees and expenses incurred in preparing for and defending claims or suits), claim, damage, or loss incurred by the Trustees pursuant to Section 7.03 of the Trust Agreement. The Individual Trustees also assert a first priority lien pursuant to Section 7.03 of the Trust Agreement to the monies in the segregated Trust account holding the proceeds of the sale of the Trust's Overriding Royalty Interest that was created pursuant to the Final Judgment and Order of the Court dated January 15, 2016 in Cause No. C-1-PB-16-000096. For additional legal theories and facts supporting the Individual Trustees' claims, see the Individual Trustees' operative Answer and Counterclaim.

The DeGolyer & MacNaughton ("D&M") report dated May 15, 2009 was not a year-end report, and therefore, pursuant to the Trust Agreement, could not be the basis for an automatic termination of the Trust, as alleged by RNR. RNR's claims are also barred by the applicable statute of limitations, and the discovery rule does not apply to prevent such bar by limitations. Further, the Individual Trustees did not breach any fiduciary duty to RNR. At the time of the May 15, 2009 D&M report, RNR owned no units in the Trust and no duties were owed by the Trust to RNR. Further, the Individual Trustees' compensation never exceeded what the Trust Agreement allows. In fact, the Individual Trustese obtained less fees than the Trust Agreement expressly permits and in certain years, no fees at all. Charging no compensation or less compensation than the Trust Agreement allows is not a breach of any duty that the Individual Trustees owe to Trust beneficiaries. Moreover, the Trust Agreement's exculpatory clause shields the Individual Trustees from liability for breach of fiduciary duty unless that breach was committed with gross negligence, bad faith, or fraud. No such breaches occurred by the Individual Trustees, and RNR is therefore unable to demonstrate any bad faith or gross negligence on the part of the Individual Trustees. The Individual Trustees have at all times acted competently, prudently, in good faith, in the interest of the Trust, and in accordance with its obligations under the Trust Agreement. RNR is not entitled to any damages, including attorneys' fees and costs, from the Trust.

The Trustees' responsibilities are set forth in the Trust Agreement. The Trustees have no power to "engage in any business or investment activity, except as permitted in Section 6.09, of any kind whatsoever." Trust Agreement at ¶ 6.05. In addition, "[t]he Trustees shall be under no obligation to diversify the Trust's assets or to dispose of any wasting assets." Id. at ¶ 6.14. In other words, the Trustees have no duty to do what the Ad Litem claims they have should have done – i.e., sell the Trust assets earlier than they did.

The Trust Agreement makes clear that the Trustees owe no duties other than those specifically enumerated in the agreement. As set forth in Section 3.04, "[t]he sole interest of each owner of a Unit shall be his pro rata portion of the Beneficial Interest and the obligations of the Trustees expressly created under this Trust Agreement with respect to the Beneficial Interest.” Trust Agreement at ¶ 3.04. As stated above, not only does the Trust Agreement not “expressly create” any duty to sell “wasting assets,” but it specifically eliminates any such duty.

Nothing in the Trust Agreement imposes, let alone expressly creates, any affirmative duty on the Trustees to seek a judicial modification or termination of the Trust. To the contrary, Section 10.01 states that “[n]o person shall have the right or power to terminate, revoke, alter, amend or change this Trust Agreement or any provisions hereof except as expressly provided in Article IX or in this Article X.” Trust Agreement at ¶ 10.01. Articles IX and X permit termination only in narrow circumstances, such as where “the total future net revenues attributable to the Overriding Royalty Interest, as determined by independent petroleum engineers as of the end of any year, are less than $2 million” or where termination was approved by the affirmative vote of unitholders holding a majority of the Trust units. Trust Agreement at ¶ 9.01(a)-(b). Nothing in the Trust Agreement obligates the Trustees to call a meeting to seek termination, let alone to seek a judicial modification of the agreement.

The Trust Agreement likewise forecloses RNR’s claim that the Trustees breached their duties by continuing to pay Trust expenses and accept compensation during the years after Hurricane Ike (and by borrowing funds from the a third party to pay Trust expenses). The Trust Agreement expressly authorizes the Trustees to “use all money received by the Trust for the payment of all liabilities of the Trust, including but not limited to all expenses, taxes, and liabilities incurred of all kinds, compensation to the Trustees for their services pursuant to Sections 7.04 and 7.05 hereof, and compensation to such parties as may be consulted pursuant to Section 7.06 hereof.” Trust Agreement at ¶ 6.06. In the event “the cash on hand is not sufficient to pay liabilities of the Trust then due . . . , the Trustees are authorized, but not required, to borrow . . . such amounts as are required after use of any available Trust funds to pay such liabilities . . . .” Id. at ¶ 6.08. “In the event of such borrowings, the Trustees shall suspend further Trust distributions . . . until the indebtedness created by such borrowing has been paid in full.” Id. The Trust Agreement also permits the Trustees to “sell all or a portion of” any Trust assets to pay liabilities. Id. at ¶ 6.04.

During the years after Hurricane Ike, investors in TELOZ were free to sell their units if they disagreed with the Trustees’ decisions regarding the future of the Trust. TELOZ’s public SEC filings expressly disclosed the challenges posed by Hurricane Ike and the risks that redevelopment may not occur. Investors could thus decide for themselves whether they wanted to buy or sell units in light of TELOZ’s public disclosures. While RNR asserts it should have been obvious to the Trustees from day one that a profitable redevelopment of the Trust properties was hopeless, the market plainly did not share that view.

For further answer, see the Individual Trustees’ operative pleadings (Amended Answer and Amended Counterclaim) regarding RNR’s claim, which is incorporated herein for all purposes.
